VOL. 35 BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JULY-AUGUST 1958 No. 7

The new minister for Little Joe's Presbyterian Church, the Reverend Hugh B. Carter, Jr., held his first service on June 29th.

Reception Given For Carter Family

The Fellowship Hall of Little Joe's Presbyterian Church was beautifully decorated for the important occasion in the life of the Church. The Reverend and Mrs. Hugh B. Carter had come to live in the manse, together with their two children, Myra and Tim. The church family wanted the opportunity of greeting the family of the manse. Miss Rebekah Carpenter received the guests at the door and presented them to Mr. Jack Crews who was chairman of the Nominating Committee, and he together with Mrs. Crews, headed the receiving line. In addition to the Crews and Mr. and Mrs. Carter, there were also in the receiving line Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lowrance, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ben Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. I. B. White and Miss Mary Arthur Sims. These folks represented respectively the Session, the Diaconate, the Men of the Church and the Women of the Church. Mrs. Roger Neill and Miss Patricia Buercklin presided at the punch bowls and Miss Kate Taylor spoke to the guests as they left the door. The entire congregation, together with visitors and friends of the community, made their way to and from the reception hall from seven to nine. It was indeed a lovely evening for the Church family and one that bids well for fine fellowship for years to come.

Lottie Walker

Hi Friends—

Here we are back again with the cottage news. Donna Rae Edmisten has joined the Lottie Walker girls. She is from Hickory and is fourteen years old.

Judy Smith went to Pioneer Camp the first week and Margaret Ramsey and Peggy Bridgers are going the second week. Shelby McEwen is paying us a visit. She is going to report for X-ray training on June 23rd. We wish her good luck in this training.

Well, everybody is getting ready for vacation. We have had a few beans to snap, but not enough to hurt our fingers.

Since this is the July-August issue of the Messenger it will be September before we see you again. Have a happy Summer!

The Lottie Walker Girls

Howard Cottage

Hurrah for the good old summer time when all of us want to make a rhyme. Eloise says: "When you feel mad,—Sing and you'll be glad." What with folk songs and dances, fun songs and classics, piano playing and floor sweeping, there is no time for worrying or fretting. There are beans to string and peaches to eat, skating to do and a talent jamboree to share. But the coolest thing of all is swimming. Most of us have passed a swim test and the rest of us expect to be ready by vacation time.

While some of us are writing, Paulette and Lois are making their birthday cake, both are thirteen years old this June. That cake smells so good!

We have a pretty new Bonnie in our cottage — eight years old and in the third grade. Linda likes having a pal who is the same age and grade as herself.

While telling our housemother that we would sing "For the Beauty of the Earth" in the choir, one girl said, "Our side is going to sing the discount (descant)!"

We must do some more packing for vacation. We have been packing for weeks, but it is a funny thing—we have to take something out and then pack again.

Love and happy vacation to you all.

Howard Cottage Girls

Lees Cottage

Hi Folks—

We hope that you are having a nice summer. We sure are glad that summer is here. The swimming pool opened about three weeks ago. We go swimming on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

We are glad that nearly everybody has a place to go on vacation this year.

Also, we are glad to say that we have six boys who work on the campus. They are —Charles McBennett, David Blalock, Donald Blalock, Larry Ruff, Clarence Wilkins, and Mike Heritage. We also have a new housemother. Her name is Mrs. Roberts. She is very good to us. One of our boys left about a week ago to go home with his people. His name is Bill Rannells.

So long,

The Murdocks Have Moved In

The Murdock family has landed in Barium Springs. The big two-story house at the north end of the campus was made ready and is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Murdock and their four children. Mr. Murdock is the new farm manager, succeeding Mr. John Floyd Stinson who is retiring. It is a fortunate thing for Barium Springs to have this fine family on the campus and to have this excellently trained leader to manage the farm, dairy, orchard, and gardens.

The four children are already learning the ropes at Barium and are becoming a real part of the campus life. Bette Eugenia will be in the eleventh grade, Roscoe Wingate, known as "Frosty", will be in the eighth grade, Alice Marie will be in the fifth grade, and Roger Wilson, Jr., known as "Rusty" will be a pre-schooler.

Thus, with the six Murdocks neighbors to the four Carters, the north end of the campus has come to life again, and how delightful it is to have these folks in the community.

VACATION TIME COMES TO THE CAMPUS

For weeks the excitement had been rising like a swelling crescendo and reached its zenith on July 3rd as the big Greyhound Bus rolled in on the campus to load the first vacationers at six o'clock in the morning. Passengers for Gastonia, Charlotte, Sanford, Fayetteville, Laurinburg, Hallsboro, Wilmington, and other points east were all packed, polished, shined, and ready to ride. From then until 8:50 in the evening the children were making their way from the campus by bus and car to various points in the State for a visit home.

For six weeks, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, the caseworker, had been corresponding with parents and relatives and guardians in making the plans. Schedules had been made, bus tickets had been bought, lunches had been packed, suit-cases had been secured, and a thousand and one details had been attended to, and the boys and girls were on their way for the vacation period.

It is the policy of the Home each year to try to place the boys and girls with their own relatives in their own home community for the two and one-half weeks that they have to be away from the campus. If it is impossible to place the children with their own people, a special effort is made to place them in their own home community with some people of their own church. When neither of these is possible, then the invitations which are so graciously extended are accepted for those who are able to be away from the campus. This year we got down to a skeleton crew of eight boys who helped to take care of the dairy, spray the apples and peaches, and mow the grass.

Three children who were admitted shortly before the vacation period started had not intended to go and they have joined the other eight, making for a happy family on the campus during the absence of the others.

The strange quiet over the grounds and through the buildings gives this place a sort of eerie feeling, but after the shakedown run of the first few days, the group began to find its own pattern and form a happy friendship for the vacation period. Straw rides, watermelon cuttings, swimming parties, picture shows, and mountain trips are the order of the day during the whole of the season, so that the time at Barium during the vacation period is a very wonderful experience for the boys and girls.

This is July-August issue—next one will be in September.

UNDER THE STEEPLE

Sunday morning, June 29th, brought the new minister, the Reverend Hugh B. Carter, Jr., to the pulpit for the first time. His first service was the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper with the new congregation.

At the meeting of the Senior High Fellowship on the same Sunday, Mr. Carter installed the officers and members of the Council. The following young people will be members of the Council in the coming year: Dickie McKenzie, Wayne Wright, Jim Kiser, Faye Hicks, Beverly McClure, Judy Clendenin, Edna Evans, Richard Blackburn, and Joe Ramsey. Miss Rebekah Carpenter is the adult adviser for the group.

The congregation has expressed its gratitude to Dr. George Staples at Davidson, N. C. for providing ministers during the time that the church was without a pastor. Appreciation was also expressed to Dr. John B. Evans for his supplying the pulpit on alternate Sundays for three months and then taking the first four Sundays in June.

Two of the girls from Howard Cottage recited the Catechism. Mrs. Johnson, their housemother, presented them for the awards. Sherry Ross received a copy of the Bible for reciting the Shorter Catechism and Carol Watts received a copy of the New Testament for reciting the Introduction to The Shorter Catechism.

The Session voted not to hold services during the first three Sundays in July when the children and staff members are on vacation.

This column will continue as a feature of the Barium Messenger and in September at the next issue of the paper will be written by the minister, Reverend Hugh B. Carter, Jr.

HOW CAN I LIVE WITH MY JOB?

(Prepared by the Houseparent Staff, Presbyterian Children's Home, Barium Springs, N. C., and A. M. Broten, Consultant, Group Child Care Project, in Workshops, September 9-13.)

The houseparent position embodies certain characteristics which make it different from many other pursuits. Many individuals have been able to be successful houseparents and to bring help to many boys and girls. Responsibility for creating an efficient position lies both with the administration of an institution and with the houseparent. By recognizing what needs to be done, both parties can move toward better care for children.

A letter from Clara (Mangum) Ausdenmore (Mrs. W. C.) states that they are now living in Craughton, England. Her husband is the Maintenance and Supply Officer for the 1230th. They have two little girls, Sheri and Vicki.

What's So Different About Being a Houseparent?

I serve around the clock. Although I may go to sleep when the children do, I am on call and feel the responsibility for them.

I must live in. My room or apartment is in the same building in which I work. My room, besides being my bedroom or living room, is also my headquarters for my work.

I usually carry the immediate responsibility myself. I do not usually have a husband or an assistant who may come in later in the day to relieve me with the children or just to share adult ideas and viewpoints with me.

My total personality is exposed and also is extremely important in my work. I cannot hide myself or any part of myself.

Although there are other adult people on the campus, I have little time during the day to be with them or to visit with them. When I do, I start talking about my children and the other houseparent does too—we just can't avoid it.

Much hostility comes my way which, basically, is not directed at me. Yet, it is hard to accept it, especially from children with whom I have spent much time and effort to get to know and show regard and concern.

What I do in my group often has an effect or repercussion elsewhere on the campus. My responsibility interacts with so many other adults.

Even though I share my responsibility for my children with the supervisor, caseworker, and the superintendent, I feel my responsibility very heavily and am especially sensitive to criticism or comments about what I have done or not done.

I live in a "glass house." It is also a public museum, at times. We want people from the outside to know us and to see where we live. But this, too, complicates our life very much.

I always live with some crisis or problem. With so many children, there is always something to solve each day. Quiet, serene moments are few and far between.

Because my charges are children, they do not always show appreciation for my efforts. I try to help them in developing this sense, but realize, too, that true appreciation on their part may not come until they are much older.

I must be able to work well with other adults on campus—even those I do not agree with or who appear to offend me. I find that I cannot be too alarmed over the limitations I see in those around me.

I need to be able to handle a group as well as an individual. A youngster may do something with his groupmates that he would not do alone. I have to be a group leader.

My time appears to be taken up with handling my problem children, and I often do not have time for the more responsive, cooperative youngsters. Those who need me most are often the least attractive personalities.

Although the institution wants to provide me with working materials, I may have to wait long periods before I have what I need. I must have the patience to wait.

What Must I Be Like Before I Accept the Job?

Equipped with good health.

Optimistic.

Able to put theory into practice.

Interested in children.

Interested in adults.

Tolerant—but not indifferent.

In possession of outside interests.

Equipped with hobbies, skills.

Objective.

Willing to give more than receive.

Open to learning.

Willing to overlap responsibility.

Fair.

Able to handle things directly and honestly.

Ready to work.

Able to be loyal and devoted.

Confident in self.

Patient.

HOW CAN I LIVE WITH MY JOB?

What Must the Institution Do About My Job?

Clearly define it—showing me where my major responsibilities lie and also where I must overlap with other personnel.

Give me a group of such size and content that I can realistically assume responsibility for it and be of help to the individuals.

Provide me with facilities and materials which make it possible to live comfortably and effectively with a group of children.

Streamline methods of procuring needed supplies, materials, and repairs, so that my requests are not held up merely through red tape.

Offer me good supervision, including orientation when I am new, support in trying situations, regular opportunities to discuss my experiences individually and in groups.

Keep me informed so that I know what is going on about the campus and with the institution in general.

Provide me with ways to develop as a member of the "team," such as through group meetings of various kinds.

Offer means whereby I may receive honest recognition and appreciation for my work and also incentives and immediate goals to work toward.

Provide me with training opportunities on a planned basis so that I can grow in my knowledge of my job.

Offer me adequate pay for my services so that I can be self-sufficient, pursue my own interests, and make some preparation for my own future.

Give me living quarters which allow for my need of privacy and comfort.

Schedule for me regular time off, so that I can plan and generally expect to have such time for personal purposes.

How Must I Conduct Myself in My Job?

In obtaining help and guidance in my work, I must follow the lines of communication or "channels" which the institution has set up.

I must settle down to the job in my cottage to the extent that I feel content and do not seek constantly opportunities to be on the move.

I must be able to find satisfactions in daily association with the children.

Also, it is necessary that I maintain outside interests and discipline myself to do interesting things outside the institution at regular intervals.

As a problem or misunderstanding arises with another staff member, I should seek, often with help of the supervisor, to talk this out with the other person and not expend my feelings on to other people on campus.

I must try to continuously evaluate what I am doing and find opportunities to learn from others.

My job will become easier and more effective if I can develop interests and skills in working with children as individuals and in a group.

I must seek an understanding of each child—because only with that, can I live with difficult youngsters.

It is important that I be honest with children and recognize when I do not have the answers. In general, however, I must feel confident in handling my group.

Best results can be achieved if I am prepared to give and help each child in my cottage as he needs it, without playing favorites.

It is my responsibility to look ahead and plan for tomorrow with new ideas, activities, projects available which may be used if need be.

I must learn to recognize differences in children, so that I can allow for this in my expectations.

My own schedule should provide time for privacy and for rest. A worn-out houseparent cannot do much for children or for herself.

My work with other adults must include sharing of information and joining in common efforts and decisions, even when the latter may not be in total agreement with my own ideas.

Of What Must I Be Convinced?

To serve in this type of employment, I must have a conviction that the goals and objectives of the institution are right and that it truly has the capacity of serving and of helping children and their families. I must see its worth and thereby know, too, that my efforts day-by-day in the cottage and on the campus produce results.

I must be convinced that every person is worth-while and that his differences are as important to him as his conformities. I must understand that there are reasons for the other fellow's behavior.

I must be confident that, within myself, I have the ability and the inclination to help others, for their sakes and not for my own.
